Unfortunately, the requested information around specific project costs is commercially sensitive and cannot be disclosed. It is important to note that daa is a Commercial Semi State Organisation, and not a Public Sector Organisation. This distinction means that legitimate commercial concerns arise for daa that may not apply to some public bodies without a commercial mandate. However, daa is committed to the achieving value-for-money in the acquisition of works, supplies and services.

daa complies with relevant legislation, Code of Practice and internal governance set out in the Procurement Governance Framework and Sustainable Sourcing Guidelines. daa's procurement practices are conducted with probity and integrity adhering to the core principles of accountability, competition, equality of treatment, fairness and transparency.

All daa legal service requirements are appointed through a tendering process. Successful appointees to the daa framework are assessed based on their technical capabilities and commercial competitiveness.

Kind regards,

Danielle Martin,
